PERSONAL PROJECTS

Business Lead Research Automation

n8n | Apify

- Built an automated lead research workflow using n8n and Apify to identify businesses on Google Maps with between 20 and 300 reviews.
- Used Apify to extract Google Maps business listing data, providing the initial business information for further research and filtering.
- Used n8n to connect the data collection and research steps into a repeatable prospecting workflow.
- Incorporated research to identify CEOs and business owners, along with phone numbers, email addresses, company websites, and social media profiles where available.
- Combined business discovery and contact research to support prospect list building and targeted outreach while reducing repetitive manual research.

BizRadar Personal Job Search Application

Codex | Visual Studio Code

- Built BizRadar, a personal job-search workspace designed to bring opportunity discovery, role comparison, and lead tracking into one application.
- Created an Opportunities dashboard displaying job titles, companies, locations, sources, posting age, match scores, and explanations of potential fit.
- Incorporated profile-based ranking and search filters for employer type, work arrangement, country eligibility, match quality, posting date, and source.
- Added keyword search across job titles, companies, skills, and locations to help narrow opportunities to relevant roles.
- Included original job-posting links and source information so opportunities and requirements can be reviewed directly.
- Designed a workflow for tagging opportunities and moving selected roles into a Leads section for tracking, with a separate Watchlists area.
- Added refresh controls, CSV export, match-based sorting, and table and pipeline view options to support reviewing and organizing opportunities.
- Built the workspace around a practical personal need: making a job search more organized and helping prioritize roles aligned with my background and preferences.
